As ever, we are delighted to be part of the esteemed Longines Global Champions Tour (LGCT) as the fifth stop of the highly anticipated 2022 season. With unprecedented prize money and a roster of superb locations on the schedule, this globe-spanning circuit truly is in a league of its own.

We are endlessly thankful for the continued support of our longtime Title Partner, the Swiss watchmaker, Longines, as well as a number of dedicated partners whose unwavering belief in our event has helped to make the Longines Athina Onassis Horse Show what it is today.

Indeed, the success of LAOHS would not be possible without them.

My thanks, as well, goes out to our generous host for the weekend, Ramatuelle Mayor Roland Bruno, who has once again opened the doors of his beautiful and welcoming community to our event. To me, there is no better place to share my deep and longstanding admiration for this sport than this one-of-a-kind corner of the world, with friends and fellow riders who appreciate this place as much as I do.

Once again, welcome back; I wish you all the very best of luck in the weekend ahead.

LONGINES CEO

"I am thrilled to once again bring top-level show jumping to this sun-soaked destination which is synonymous with elegance and style."

Welcome to the glamorous and sophisticated French Riviera town of Ramatuelle, Saint-Tropez for the exciting 5th leg of the 2022 season. We are fortunate to enjoy a fantastic range of privileged venues each season and this is again a truly special place with the arena only a stone's throw away from the turquoise waters of Pampelonne beach.

I am thrilled to once again bring top-level show jumping to this sun-soaked destination which is synonymous with elegance and style. This leg is a crucial stage in the early part of the season as the world's best riders look to pick up as many points as possible before the Finals of our global circuit and also the GC Playoffs in Prague in November. We have witnessed incredible sporting performances across continents already this year from Doha, to Miami and Mexico before landing in Europe to continue the non-stop show jumping action that always features the best equine talent.

This year we will see incredible performances again in both the individual Longines Global Champions Tour Grand Prix and the GCL team competitions where the home team St Tropez Pirates will be hoping for a podium position. The fantastic event here in Ramatuelle - Saint Tropez always has a wonderful ambience and high standards of facilities for all to enjoy.

I would like to thank Longines, our Title Partner and Official Timekeeper, for their long-standing support over the years. I would also like to thank our partners throughout the season and here in Ramatuelle - Saint Tropez. My appreciation also goes to our fans around the world for joining us at the shows when possible and watching on GCTV live streaming where our commentators entertain with expert analysis and insight.

I wish you all a magnificent event.

MAYOR
OF RAMATUELLE

Roland Bruno

LONGINES
GLOBAL CHAMPIONS TOUR

Explained

The 2022 Longines Global Champions Tour kicks off in March with the world's very best riders competing for an unprecedented amount of prize money across LGCT and GCL, and the highly prestigious Championship title.

As well as the overall ranking battle, athletes will be competing for a place in the highly coveted GC Prague Playoffs, the ultimate showdown for the world's best, scheduled this year for November at the O2 Arena in the Czech capital city. Here, winners of each LGCT Grand Prix will be invited to compete in the Longines Global Champions Tour Super Grand Prix, the ultimate head-to-head battle of the season's best.

The 2022 season opens in Doha, Qatar and then travels to 15 further destinations across three continents, culminating in the season Finals where this year's season champion will be crowned.

Show jumping's top riders team up with their best horses for individual honours in a series of spectacular competitions on the tour, with the LGCT Grand Prix as one of the highlights of each event.

To help you keep track of this thrilling series of high octane jumping, here is a brief guide to the format:

1 WHO WILL BE COMPETING IN THE CHAMPIONSHIP?
The world's top riders may take part in any of the 16 LGCT events, earning points and competing for a prize pot of over €300,000 in each of the LGCT Grand Prix.

2 HOW DOES IT ALL BEGIN?
Horses and riders compete in any of the CSI5* supporting classes at each show. This allows horses to acclimatise to each different venue, which ranges from grass to sand surfaces, with different sized arenas and a range of environments, as well as giving riders the chance to win some serious prize money.

3 WHICH RIDERS COMPETE IN THE LGCT GRAND PRIX?
The top 35 riders according to their penalties and time qualify from the previous competition, which also doubles as a second GCL leg, held earlier on the Saturday at each event. Jumping in reverse order of merit from the qualifier, horses and riders begin by jumping over a 1.55m/1.60m course of fences. Any combination that completes on a zero score, or tie on penalties if no combination remains clear, goes through to a jump-off against the clock, held over a shortened course, to decide top honours.

4 HOW DOES THE SCORING WORK?
Points are allocated to each of the 35 riders according to their finishing place in each event's LGCT Grand Prix. Over the season, each rider's top eight scores count towards the overall championship ranking and a share of the bonus prize money, which will be awarded at the season Finals.

5 WHAT ABOUT THE LGCT SUPER GRAND PRIX?
This is the ultimate showdown in show jumping. Each winner (or next highest ranked athlete if more than one event is won), will qualify for a place in this special class, held at the GC Prague Playoffs. This will see the best horses and riders across the season return to face off for the ultimate goal of taking the title of LGCT Super Grand Prix Champion.

GCL 2022

Explained

The 2022 GCL season will see show jumping's top riders unite in pursuit of championship glory as they battle it out across the world.

A total of 16 teams line up for this, the sixth season of the GCL. This tactical series will feature LGCT, Olympic and world champions going head-to-head, as well as offering some of the world's leading under-25 riders a chance to compete on the global stage.

The concept is the first top level competition in the sport's history that allows riders from different nations to compete on the same team, providing a breathtaking spectacle of fierce rivalry and immense team spirit in a modern and dynamic format.

The GCL classes take place over two days at each of the global legs of the circuit, running alongside the Longines Global Champions Tour throughout the season. The climax of the year will be the GC Prague Playoffs, as teams battle through the quarter-final, semi-final and final stages of the knockout GCL Super Cup.

The countdown is on and here is a brief guide to the format:

GLOBAL CHAMPIONS
LEAGUE

1 HOW DOES IT ALL BEGIN?

The first part of the GCL will be on the opening day of each event and this CSI5* 1.50/1.55m class will see teams' combined scores taken forward to the second class. Two riders from each GCL team compete in each class before the class opens to individual riders. All riders in this class will be chasing Longines world ranking points and teams will be looking to put themselves in pole position ahead of the second round.

2 WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

The second part of the GCL competition also doubles as a qualifier for the LGCT Grand Prix. It will be a CSI5* 1.55/1.60m class. This takes place on Saturdays at every event before the LGCT Grand Prix. Individual riders, not riding for teams, will be the first to start in this class to try to qualify for the LGCT Grand Prix. Then the GCL teams will take centre stage, carrying through their combined faults from the first class. The results of the GCL riders will count towards their overall team score, but now their performance will also determine whether they qualify for the LGCT Grand Prix as individuals.

The overall winners of the GCL competition will be the team with the least combined faults and the quickest time over the two rounds.

3 HOW DOES THE SERIES PROGRESS?

Teams can change horses and/or riders between the two GCL classes as well as fielding different squads for each of the global legs in the series. Strategy and inter-team strengths will be crucial as different riders and horses are fielded for particular circumstances. Teams will be able to earn points at every single event, all contributing to their place in the season long Championship ranking, as well as tussle for a top place in the all-important GCL Super Cup at the GC Prague Playoffs.

4 SO WHAT ARE THE GC PRAGUE PLAYOFFS?

This stand alone event in November will be the ultimate face-off for the GCL teams. Here teams will go head-to-head in the GCL Super Cup in a three-day high stakes knockout competition.

The teams ranked 5th-16th will compete in the first day quarter-finals, with only eight teams carrying through to the next day's competition-the semi-finals. They will be joined by the top four ranked teams in the Championship, and battle to finish in the top six, making it through to the final. Here the winning team will be crowned GCL Super Cup winners.

5 WHAT HAPPENS IN THE TRANSFER WINDOW?

The transfer windows are at critical points in the season as teams re-evaluate to gain maximum advantage on the road to the GC Prague Playoffs.

6 TEAM STRUCTURE

Teams again have a roster of six riders (including at least one U25 athlete) for the season. This means tactics and strategy will remain a priority for team managers and owners, with a large team of horses and riders to field at each distinctive event. There have been plenty of high profile movers and shakers across the grid, with new allegiances formed and unique partnerships forged deeper still, and this season already promises to be an electric showcase of high-octane team sport.
